Galaxy attack alien shooter android tips

Fans of old school games should love Galaxy Attack: Alien Shooter because it is very similar to Galaga, the legendary arcade game. Your goal is to shoot a bunch of aliens off your ship. Destroy them all and move on to the next wave. There are usually three waves on the level. Enemies will drop items as you destroy them. These beauties will strengthen your ship. It will have you carving through aliens like a knife through the oil. After all, you may meet the boss who will stand in your way. The general concept of Alien Shooter is simple and, as mentioned, should be familiar to Galaga players. However, this is not a walk in the park. It may be based on classics, but it has matured and become more powerful. Here are some things to keep in mind when fighting an alien scum. Yes, so it's not just once, quick, then and then you snap out of it. You will continue to become even more brutal. What I'll say is to pay attention though. Not everything that drops your ticket is a one-way extraterrestrial city beatdown. They can refuse attacks on you that will make you lose health so don't try to capture everything because otherwise, you will get hit. Fortunately, it's pretty easy to determine what's good for you and what's not. If you see items with small arrows on them, then those are usually good. If you see torpedo things, they want to kill you. In short, it's pretty obvious to say, but it can understandably baffle at first glance. This is especially because they throw you into the level right away. More than likely, you're already doing this, but remain on the move. You never know when a bomb is going to fall on you, so standing in one place is not a good idea. Sometimes it's easy to do when you still have a few enemies to clear in one row. But, just move around and you end up back in a line that you wanted to pull out. Go from side to side and be very careful if you go to the front of the aliens. The closer you get, chances are it will be easier to get hit because you won't have time to dodge. Also, you never know how alien scum will spawn. They can pop out in the area where you are sitting, so be on high alert. I would say to always start at the bottom of the screen. Then if you feel brave and want to move up then you can, if it helps you eliminates aliens faster. But start low and keep moving. Bosses in Alien Shooter are not as easy as just shooting them to death. Yes, they have your signature health bar boss and all that good stuff. However, there are hit points that you should have in Most bosses have parts of them that need to be destroyed. Each of these pieces has its own mini health bar. It may be wise to shoot out the smallest areas first. This is because they are harder to hit because they are smaller. Take care of yourself These are tough spots early and get it out of the way. Once you do, then fire away at the largest remaining square, and finish off the boss. If you are struggling with beating the boss, don't forget that you can always change your level of difficulty. The last thing you want to do is throw your phone across the room in despair, am I right? But just pay attention to the boss attack model and you'll be fine.
